James Naranjo—Governor, Jesse Gutierrez—Lt. Governor,

Treasurer

Above photo is the first traditional meeting of the All Pueblo Council of Governors which was held at Santo Domingo Pueblo on January 29, 2026. Governors meet on a monthly basis to discuss federal, state and local issues to form a united consensus. In 1970 the All Indian Pueblo Council, AIPC, was incorporated to secure federal funds for education and economic development programs, as well as to review legislation and policies.

This 1922 photo shows part of the AIPC delegation in front of the White House after defeating the Bursum Bill. The Bursum Bill would have given Pueblo land rights to non-indigenous settlers.

Currently the AIPC, now known as the APCG, is credited with leading the fight on many major cultural and government issues to protect the livelihood, customs and traditions and stand strong against challenges to Tribal Sovereignty.

APCG addresses many priority concerns on behalf of the Pueblo communities; our Youth, things that affect our children's health, education, racial inequalities and economic security. Protecting Water and Land Rights and Cultural Heritage sites such as Chaco Canyon. Education, creating relevant Pueblo-focused curriculum to educate our young about who they are and strengthen their self-identity. Economic Development to design and build sustainable, productive economies. Health to address health inequities and ensure a healthy start for the youth and ensure our elders are safe and properly nourished. Legislation, review bills and policies to accurately reflect Pueblo input and comments.

Below is the APCG meeting schedule. Santa Clara Pueblo will be hosting one or two of the upcoming meetings, which are open to attend.
